DOMESTIC/SEXUAL VIOLENCE and THE WORKPLACE

AN EMPLOYEE TOOLKIT
This document was a collaboration of the Women's Fund of Omaha and the Human Resource Association of the Midlands (HRAM).

As a trusted expert in our community the Women’s Fund of Omaha identifies the most critical issues affecting women and girls in order to raise awareness and drive change. We work collaboratively to ensure that together we are creating a community where women are free from violence—including sex trafficking, domestic violence and sexual assault.

The mission of HRAM, the largest affiliated chapters of the Society for Human Resource Management in the country, is to serve and advance the greater Omaha human resource community through professional development and networking opportunities. Building human resource professionals, one member at a time.

HRAM's vision is to elevate human resource's role as a valued strategic partner, through the values of: Integrity, Relationships, Education, Affordability and Advocacy. One of HRAM’s core goals is to provide education to help create diverse and safe work environments for all employees.

A special thank you to Kim Carpenter for her contribution to the research and writing of this document and to Ingrid Hofeldt for the editing and organizing of this document. Thank you to Survivors Rising and individual survivors who shared their experiences so that others may learn from them. Photos used throughout this report are NOT photos of the survivors represented within this report. Instead, the photos used are stock images (professional, licensed photos) and are meant to represent the diversity of individuals who experience these forms of violence.

SPECIAL POPULATIONS
Sexual assault, stalking, sexual harassment, domestic violence and sex trafficking affect all populations. However, certain people are at higher risk for experiencing victimization. Women, immigrants, people of color, indigenous people, people with disabilities, youth, youth missing from care, people in poverty, LGBTQ people and trans people are all more likely to experience victimization and face greater barriers to seeking care and support.
“I lived in a world where I thought that rape would never happen to me. The guilt, isolation, lack of family support, raised eyebrows, sleeping with the lights on, years of counseling and feelings of not knowing if this guy was around the next corner. I tell other survivors: don’t try and go it alone. Don’t ignore the feelings inside. They will come back to haunt you.”

-Survivor
WHAT IS SEXUAL VIOLENCE?

The term sexual violence refers to sexual contact or behavior that occurs without the explicit consent of the victim. Whether attempted or completed, any of these examples constitute sexual assault.

EXAMPLE BEHAVIORS

- Non-consensual oral, anal, vaginal or digital penetration of the victim’s body, also known as rape
- Forcing a victim to perform sexual acts, such as oral sex, touching the perpetrator or penetrating the perpetrator’s body
- Unwanted sexual contact, including intentional touching of the victim or making the victim touch the perpetrator, either directly or through the clothing, on the genitalia, anus, groin, breast, inner thigh or buttocks
- Non-contact unwanted sexual experiences, including unwanted sexual incidents that are not physical that occur without the person’s consent. Examples include unwanted exposure to sexual situations, threats of sexual violence to accomplish some other end and unwanted filming or dissemination of sexual photographs of another person

Anyone can commit sexual assault, but most perpetrators are someone known to the victim. Approximately 7 out of 10 sexual assaults are committed by someone known to the victim, like intimate partner sexual violence or acquaintance rape.

WHAT IS CONSENT?

Consent is when someone freely gives permission, agrees to or says yes to sexual activity with another person or persons. For an activity to be consensual, all people involved must be able to freely consent to the sexual activity. Consent is an ongoing conversation and partners should continually check in with each other throughout sex to make sure that their partner is still consenting. Consenting to one activity does not mean you consent to all activities. Consenting to an activity at an earlier time does not automatically indicate that you consent again. At times, sexual contact may be sexual violence, but the criminal justice system might not recognize it as sexual violence based on criminal statutes.

Consent looks different depending on the individuals’ relationship, previously established boundaries, etc. Because of this complexity, it is impossible to concretely define what consent looks like across all interactions. The chart below includes examples of consent and non-consent; however, this chart is not an all-inclusive list of indicators. Some of these examples might not apply to specific situations.

POSSIBLE INDICATORS

POSSIBLE INDICATORS OF CONSENT

- “Yes”
- “Let’s try it”
- “That feels awesome”
- “I’m enjoying this”
- “I want to keep doing this”
- Head nod or other body language

POSSIBLE INDICATORS OF NON-CONSENT

- “No”
- “Maybe later”
- “I don’t want to do this”
- Silence
- Pushing away
- Turning head or body away
- Physically non-responsive

POSSIBLE INDICATORS THAT SOMEONE IS NOT ABLE TO CONSENT

- Either they are intoxicated/under the influence of drugs or alcohol
- They are incapacitated
- There is a power dynamic (i.e. teacher/student, employer/employee)
- Their partner threatens them
- Their partner coerces them (i.e. threatens to tell lies about or break up with them, uses language like: “Don’t you want to make me happy,” etc.)
“I was completely mortified by the rumors [my stalker had spread about me] flying at work and felt really helpless. I felt like the more I denied them, the guiltier I looked. I didn’t know how to stand up for myself and I didn’t understand that I was being stalked and harassed, because a lot of behavior looked like things that our culture depicts as ‘romantic.’ The flowers, the incessant attention, the refusal to heed my requests to stop—I still believed that these were all “normal” things that men did when they really wanted to win someone over.”

-Survivor
WHAT IS STALKING?

Stalking is a pattern of behavior that makes victim/survivors feel afraid, nervous, harassed or in danger. Stalking occurs when someone repeatedly contacts someone, follows them, sends them things, talks to them when they don’t want them to or threatens them. Stalking behavior may cause victims to fear for their safety or the safety of family members. People might not consider unwanted gifts or phone calls stalking; however, when these behaviors are repetitive, they may feel threatening to a person.

Stalking can be difficult to recognize and investigate. When people think of a stalker, they usually imagine a stranger following every move they make. However, stalking victims typically know their offenders. In many cases, victims are being stalked by their domestic abuser, trafficker, rapist or someone harassing them at work. Stalking may indicate that one of these situations is escalating and becoming more dangerous. Stalking commonly occurs at work as offenders can easily predict when the victim will be there. Also, victims have difficulty leaving, avoiding or hiding at their workplace. Therefore, the workplace may feel like a vulnerable location for the victim/survivor.

Victims/survivors of stalking may deny or initially minimize the stalking behaviors. Victims/survivors may feel responsible for the stalking, avoid talking about it or feel embarrassed by being a target of stalking. Stalking may also sometimes be seen as flattery by others. Stalking however, can be incredibly dangerous, can escalate and may indicate a potentially lethal situation so should not be minimized or misconstrued.

-Survivor
WHAT IS SEXUAL HARASSMENT?

Sexual harassment covers a variety of behaviors that create an environment that is intimidating, hostile or offensive. Sexual harassment can be perpetrated by anyone but can be especially harmful when it occurs by a person in authority over the victim.

In the workplace, the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission defines sexual harassment as ‘unwelcome conduct based on race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy), national origin, marital status, age (40 or older), and/or disability.’ The harassment must be unwelcome and severe enough that it’s hostile and abusive or that the harassment is a condition of the victim’s employment or promotion.

It is also harassment if a victim is retaliated against for filing a discrimination charge, participating in an investigation, opposing a practice made unlawful by one of the discrimination laws, or refusing to do something that is unlawful.

Other factors included but not required are:
- The frequency of the unwelcome discriminatory conduct
- The severity of the conduct
- Whether the conduct was physically threatening or humiliating
- Whether the conduct unreasonably interfered with work performance
- The effect on the employee’s psychological well-being
- Whether the harasser was a superior within the organization

Anyone can commit sexual harassment in the workplace: supervisors, co-workers, customers, contractors or anyone else the victim interacts with on the job. While legally behavior needs to fit certain criteria to qualify as sexual harassment, all sexual behavior that makes another person feel uncomfortable is sexual harassment and can be harmful.

EXAMPLES

- Supervisor who fires or denies promotion to a subordinate for refusing to be sexually cooperative
- Supervisor offers preferential treatment/promotion if subordinate sexually cooperates

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

“Workplace responses to my violent relationship has varied. I worked for a state agency. Eventually I did share my experience with a female administrator. She was amazing.

Unfortunately, the same employer included my number and personal information in their contact book, despite my requests not to.”

-Survivor
WHAT IS DOMESTIC VIOLENCE?

Domestic violence, also known as intimate partner violence, is a pattern of behavior in any relationship that is used to gain or maintain power and control over an intimate partner.

It is not always easy to determine in the early stages of a relationship if one person will become abusive. Domestic violence usually intensifies over time. Abusers may often seem charming, caring and kind initially, but gradually become more aggressive and controlling as the relationship continues. Domestic violence can vary in frequency and severity from one episode that might or might not have lasting impact to severe episodes over a number of years.

There are four main types of domestic violence. They include: emotional abuse, sexual violence, stalking and physical violence by a current or former intimate partner (e.g. spouse, boyfriend/girlfriend, dating partner or ongoing sexual partner).

PHYSICAL VIOLENCE also includes coercing other people to commit any of the above acts. Physical violence is the intentional use of physical force. Physical violence includes, but is not limited to, pushing; grabbing; biting; shaking; hair pulling; hitting; burning; use of a weapon; driving recklessly; restraining or preventing someone from leaving; or using size or strength against another person.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE is any attempted or completed sexual contact or activity that is not consensual. Acts are not consensual if the victim does not give absolute consent or if the victim is not able to consent.

STALKING is a pattern of repeated, unwanted attention and contact that causes fear or concern for one's own safety or the safety of someone else (e.g., family member or friend).

EMOTIONAL ABUSE is communication that intends to harm another person mentally, or to exert control over another person. Emotional abuse can include psychological aggression (e.g., name-calling, humiliating); coercive control (e.g., limiting access to transportation, money, friends and family); excessive monitoring of whereabouts; threats of physical or sexual violence; control of reproductive or sexual health (e.g., refusal to use birth control, coerced pregnancy termination); exploitation of victim’s vulnerability (e.g., immigration status, disability); or presenting false information to the victim/survivor with the intent of making them doubt their own memory or perception⁹.

“He threatened to send nude photos he had of me to my boss and he made sure to show me that he had my boss’s personal information. I became so frightened of losing my job and having everyone see me in that manner. I finally decided to go to my boss before my trafficker did. I sat down in front of my boss and explained the threatening situation: my trafficker was an ex and that he would not leave me alone. I was feeling shame for the nude photos and the thought of opening up and saying I had been forced to do these acts was too much for me to handle.”

WHAT IS TRAFFICKING?

SEX TRAFFICKING
Sex trafficking is a form of commercial sexual exploitation and occurs when someone facilitates a sex act for money (or for something else of value) and does so either using force, fraud or coercion or involving a minor (under 18 years old). This can also include sexually explicit performances or the production of pornography.

- FORCE: Force refers to any form of dominance. Traffickers use force both to recruit their victims and to maintain control over them. Traffickers may use tactics like rape, physical abuse, food and sleep deprivation, or drugs to control and create dependency.

- FRAUD: Traffickers may lure victims with the promise of love, safety, a good job, high pay, a better life or exchange food, shelter, travel, protection or safety to compel or create dependency of their victim.

- COERCION: Traffickers use many tactics such as threats, lies, blackmail, intimidation, humiliation, and debt bondage to coerce victims into sex trafficking. These tactics instill fear and psychological trauma in victims creating a sense of obligation for victims.

HOW ARE INDIVIDUALS INTRODUCED TO SEX TRAFFICKING?
There are varied circumstances in which sex trafficking occurs. Victims/survivors may be:

- Romantically involved with their trafficker
- Enticed with a promise of employment, education, economic security, a loving relationship or safety
- Sold for sex by a family member
- Missing from care (runaway) or homeless youth in need of safety or basic necessities

SEX BUYER
The purchasing of sex contributes to the commercial sexual exploitation and sex trafficking of individuals. If you are a sex buyer and you purchase a trafficking victim, you are committing violence against the victim. This is true regardless of whether you knew the individual you bought was trafficked.

LABOR TRAFFICKING
Labor trafficking occurs when an adult or minor is subjected to forced labor/services. Traffickers accomplish this through force, fraud or coercion by inflicting or threatening injury, destroying or controlling personal identification, threatening deportation or financial harm, exploiting functional impairment, and/or creating debt bondage. Traffickers may also lure victims through promises of high-paying jobs or educational opportunities.

Labor trafficking typically occurs in low-wage industries. It occurs in both regulated and unregulated industries and in both hidden and public industries. Labor exploitation and trafficking occur on a continuum. Labor exploitation can range from less than pay promised or withheld pay to illegal deductions, hazardous work environments, or no meal breaks. Labor trafficking can range from demoralization and deprivation to threats or use of violence, intimidation and control.

What To do if You’re Experiencing Any of These Types of Violence

Below are strategies you can utilize to help stay safe. Know that even taking the step of seeking out resources takes incredible strength and resilience. Not all these suggestions may be helpful to you depending on your unique situation and the form of violence you’re experiencing. Trust your instincts and knowledge of your own situation when deciding whether to take these steps.

- Remember it’s not your fault. You may be feeling a range of emotions, but whatever you feel, know that what happened wasn’t your fault. Don’t blame yourself for anything you did or didn’t do.
- Find support. Dealing with violence or its aftermath can be overwhelming. But you’re not alone. It may help to talk to a trusted friend, family member, or counselor.

SEEK PROTECTIONS IN YOUR WORKPLACE

EMPLOYERS AND CO-WORKERS CAN SUPPORT YOU AS YOU DEAL WITH THE VIOLENCE.

- If you feel safe doing so, talk to your employer or supervisor and ask them about what accommodations they can offer you.
- If you have a visible workstation, ask to move to a non-public or less visible location.
- Ask an escort to walk you to and from your transportation or request a well-lit parking space.
- If necessary, reroute your calls to a voicemail system, change your extension or have your calls screened.
- Give a picture of the person victimizing you to security, your employer or friends at work.
- Make sure your workplace knows not to list your address or phone number or give them out.
- Make sure your location settings are turned off on your social media accounts and phone. If necessary, switch your phone number, email address, passwords or social media accounts, or block your victimizer from those accounts.
- If you have a protection order, keep a copy of it at your workplace.
- Ask someone you trust to document any abusive/violent behavior they witness, whether that’s bruises on your body or text messages they receive from your victimizer.
- If your employer would allow for telecommuting or other schedule changes, like fluctuating hours, to accommodate your mental health or legal needs. Additionally, an erratic work schedule can protect against stalking, harassment and abuse.
- Ask for support if your performance suffers because of victimization.

SEEK OUT ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

THERE ARE LOCAL AND NATIONAL RESOURCES LISTED AT THE END OF THIS GUIDE. Through those resources, you can connect with professionals trained to help you.

- Know your rights. You not only have legal rights, you also have rights within the workplace to a safe work environment. The resources at the end of this document can help you understand more.
- Safety plan. Find tools for staying safe while in abusive relationships, before leaving them and after you’ve left at www.thehotline.org/help/path-to-safety/ or www.stoprelationshipabuse.org/help/develop-a-safety-plan/ for specific advice on how to help keep you, your children and others safe.

KNOW YOUR LEGAL OPTIONS

ALL OF THESE TYPES OF VIOLENCE CAN VIOLATE FEDERAL AND STATE LAW.

- Consider contacting the police. They can assist you as you decide whether to pursue legal action.
- Keep a record of the behavior and any police reports. Document all behavior with dates, times and information. Physical evidence (e.g. gifts left by a stalker); electronic evidence (e.g. text messages or emails from an assaulter); and evidence from memory (e.g. written recollections of harassing comments)—can all be used if you choose later to pursue legal action.
- Consider seeking medical care. If you’re concerned about STDs, unintended pregnancy or collection of medical evidence, it can help to talk to a medical professional.
- Learn about potential repercussions of reporting as a minor or an undocumented person. If you report violence to your employer, the police or social service agencies as a minor (under 18), those adults may have to report that violence to different authorities or your guardians. Similarly, reporting violence to the authorities as an undocumented person could trigger legal action against you. Utilize the legal resources listed at the end of this document to learn more.
- File a complaint with the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission. If harassment or stalking in the workplace is not corrected immediately, you can file a formal complaint with the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission or the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.
- Consider seeking a protection order. Different types of no-cost protection orders exist for domestic violence, sexual harassment and sexual assault:
  - Domestic Abuse Protection Order: for people who have been in close relationships (relatives, former/current spouses, people who formerly/currently cohabitate, etc). They are granted because someone either 1) attempted, threatened or caused bodily injury, 2) intimidated the other person by credible threat, or 3) engaged in non-consensual sex.
  - Harassment Protection Order: does not depend upon relationship. Requires a number of telephone or personal contacts that seriously terrorify, threaten, or intimidate the victims.
  - Sexual Assault Protection Order: does not depend upon relationship. They are granted because someone subjected or attempted to subject another person to non-consensual sexual contact or penetration.
